SAILSTAD CASE RE-OPENED IN FEDERAL COURT

Insurance Company Appeals from Jury Decision at Eau Claire Ordering Payment of Insurance to Widow

RISK FIRM CLAIMS SAILSTAD ELOPED WITH HIS SECRETARY

Deny Beneficiary's Contentions that Husband Died in Fire at Summer Cottage

CHICAGO, Ill.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Edward J. Sailstad, 42, of Eau Claire, Wis., has been reopened here today when the federal court of appeals at Chicago ordered a new trial for the jury decision in the case of the insurance company.

The lower court decision opened to the former wife of Sailstad insurance money to the extent of $62,500 on the ground that the insurance policy was not voided by the fact that the husband had been declared dead by the jury. The insurance company appealed from the jury decision. A new trial was ordered by the federal court of appeals.

All Traces Lost

On only one point were attorneys for the opposing sides in the case agreed—that the fact of Sailstad's disappearance was not in dispute. The jury found that he had been declared dead by the jury. The insurance company appealed from the jury decision. A new trial was ordered by the federal court of appeals.

KELLOGG CHOICE SIGN FOR REVIVAL OF POLITICAL WAR

Insurgents Wondering Whether Coolidge Will Ignore Faction in Awarding Political Plums

ADMINISTRATION FLIRTING WITH PROGRESSIVE IN WISCONSIN?

Complaints are Made by Followers of Senator Lenroot

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright, 1923)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Political warfare between the regular wing of the republican party and the insurgents in the west and northwest has been to no small degree intensified by the selection of Senator Kellogg to be the American ambassador to Great Britain.

The president and Secretary Hughes, asked the British government in the customary way whether their selection was "persona grata" but neither Senator Magnus Johnson nor Senator Henrik Shipstead—both of whom represent the farmer-labor party in Minnesota—have been asked the usual question of courtesy as to the appointment of a man hailing from their state.

This does not mean any flight of consequence against the confirmation of Mr. Kellogg who stands in high esteem in the senate and who probably will be confirmed quickly when once his nomination is reported to the floor of the senate. But it does portend trouble of another character. In other words the insurgents are asking whether the appointment of Mr. Kellogg means that the administration intends in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and other rebellious states, politically speaking, to award its patronage plums to the so-called conservative branch of the party.

Precipitates Merry Row

About the middle of the Taft administration the late Charles D. Norton, who was private secretary to Mr. Taft, committed the indiscretion of writing a letter which was published to the effect that unless the insurgents played ball with the administration they could expect no patronage. Nobody has written any such letter today nor has any final word been communicated to the factious in the various states concerned but it is known that the Kellogg appointment has precipitated a merry little controversy and that paralleling it is another row in Wisconsin which the political members of President Coolidge are trying to settle.

Minnesota has in the last two senatorial elections thrown her influence to the farmer-labor party. The republicans have lost many of their regular supporters in the move. The democratic party has been almost entirely wiped out. Who then should get recognition? The regular party workers will not be encouraged to keep up the fight if the administration is to bestow its rewards on the insurgent radicals. As for the delegates to the nominating convention, the president probably will not get the support of the farmer-labor party anyhow, and the question of what he gets from Minnesota will depend what faction of the republican party possesses the machinery for choosing delegates.

Flirting With Bob

In Wisconsin an interesting situation has developed as a result of the complaint of some of the followers of Senator Lenroot that the administration was "flirting" with the La Follette wing of the republican party. Here the problem is somewhat different for in addition to Senator La Follette who won the regular republican party nomination and election there are several members of the house of representatives who are classed as republicans. In this group there are two kinds, however, those congressmen who are friendly to La Follette and also on good terms with the national administration and those who are out of the time denouncing the administration with foul-mouthed abuse. There are questions arising all the time with reference to the appointment of postmasters and other federal officials and the administration will have to choose between the factions.

As for Mr. Kellogg's appointment, the friends of the White House are letting it be known that President Coolidge was committed to the appointment of Mr. Kellogg by the promise of the late President Harding. This does not mean that Mr. Coolidge thinks any less of former Senator Kellogg than did Mr. Harding but that were the political factors to be taken into consideration he might have avoided entering into a controversy with the two Minnesota senators, one of whom boasts of the fact that he was elected to office by the overwhelming vote of the people against Mr. Kellogg. Outside of the radical wing of the party, the Kellogg appointment is looked upon as bringing to the court of St. James an exceptionally able lawyer, a man of means who will not suffer the financial hardships of his predecessor and a man of means who will not suffer the financial hardships of his predecessor and a man who has the confidence of the co-operation element in the republican party which believes in a closer understanding with Europe instead of a policy of aloofness and isolation.

COOLIDGE FAVORS BIG UPPER RIVER BOTTOMS PRESERVE

Not Only Winneshiek Drainage Fight But Whole Plan is Approved

DILG SUMMONED TO LAY PLANS BEFORE PRESIDENT

Has Long Conference With Occupant of White House

ANNOUNCEMENT that President Coolidge has approved the rescue of the Winneshiek bottoms from the drainage plan, an approval that is believed to sound the knell of the scheme to drain the bottoms, came as no surprise to local leaders of the Drainage League when it was made public by President Will Dilg at the Juneville meeting of the league.

Called to White House

The fact was already known privately through correspondence with Mr. Dilg, who returned two weeks ago from a conference at the White House. Mr. Dilg was summoned to the executive mansion to explain the whole Upper Mississippi project to President Coolidge, he informed leaders of the league after his return to the league headquarters at Chicago. He was given a forty-minute interview with the president, an unusually long session for the busy occupant of the White House, and while no details of the interview were made public, Mr. Dilg said he was granted permission to say that President Coolidge approves the program of Upper Mississippi legislation proposed by the league.

League leaders are overjoyed by the news. The Winneshiek Bottom fight was but the opening wedge for the proposal to make the whole of the upper river bottoms into a great federal park and monument, having in forever to the destroying drainage scheme which had been worked down for years by the league. The league has been working for the preservation of the bottoms for many years. The league has been working for the preservation of the bottoms for many years. GERMAN CABINET REJECTS DEMANDS SET FORTH IN ULTIMATUM OF SOCIALISTS

Withdrawal of Party from Coalition Government Expected to Follow Action of Cabinet; London Hopeful of Early Organization of Reparations Conference With U. S. Represented

BERLIN.—By the Associated Press.—Chancellor Stresemann informed the socialist leaders Friday afternoon that the majority of the members of his cabinet have rejected the demands which the socialists made the condition of their continuance in the ministry.

The coalition socialist members are expected to withdraw from the government in the course of the afternoon.

The socialists' vote to withdraw from the coalition was by a big majority, only 19 of the party's delegates opposing the resolution inviting the three socialist ministers to resign.

The ministers, who immediately went to see Chancellor Stresemann, are Wilhelm Schmitt, minister of the interior; Gustav Radbruch, justice, and Robert Schmidt, reconstruction.

U. S. Awaits Outcome

In the absence of a definite understanding of the allied reparations formula being worked out between London and Paris, American officials still are unable to determine whether the invitation for American participation in an expert investigation will be found acceptable.

Until there are further official advices, the United States is continuing the role of interested observer, and is maintaining hope that the restrictions proposed by France may not in the end prove of such a character as to render American aid in the inquiry futile.

No communication relating to the present negotiations between Great Britain and France has been dispatched by the American government to either the London or Paris foreign office since the exchange of views almost three weeks ago between Secretary Hughes and Foreign Secretary Curzon.

The only statement of the French attitude so far received through official channels is that given in the original French reply of more than a week ago to the first communication proposing the expert committee plan.

London Optimistic

—By The Associated Press.—Increasing confidence is felt in government quarters here over the prospects for the early organization and meeting of a special reparations committee on which an American economic expert will sit. In the exchange of views which is proceeding between London and Paris respecting the terminology of the collective allied invitation to the United States, Premier Poincare, it is learned, shows a perceptible desire to soften some of the restrictions he has already set forth.

France Welcomes U. S.

—By The Associated Press.—France accepts with cordiality the contemplated collaboration of the United States in a conference of experts to study Germany's capacity to pay reparations. She demands, however, that it should be clearly understood that the proposed inquiry should bear solely on the "present" capacity of Germany and that it should respect all the rights held by the reparations commission under the treaty of Versailles.

This is the substance, it was learned Friday, of the reply which France has made to the British note of October 31, asking her to join Italy, Belgium and Great Britain, in a collective invitation to the United States to be represented at the proposed conference. The reply was handed to the British embassy Thursday. Its text was not made public.

SPOOKS FAIL TO CONVINCE BIRD'S PSYCHIC INQUIRERS

Eleven Months of Scientific Investigation Uncover no Spirit Evidence

EXPLAINS PHENOMENA AS PHYSICAL IN ITS CAUSE

Telepathy and Force Projection from Brain Accepted

BY MALCOLM ELLIS
(Special Correspondent, Tribune)

NEW YORK.—Eleven months of investigation from a scientific standpoint have convinced J. Malcolm Bird, editor of Scientific American and secretary of a committee of eminent American scientists investigating physical phenomena produced by mediums that communication by living human beings with the dead has not been accomplished.

His investigation has carried Mr. Bird to all parts of Europe. In company with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, spiritualism's chief defender, he held seances with such famous European mediums as John Shann, Mrs. Osborne Leonard, Evan Powell, William Hope and independently he visited mediums in Paris, Berlin and Munich. He sat also with famous American mediums, including Mrs. J. K. P. Stewart of Cleveland, George Valentine of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Ada Bessinet of Toledo.

Confessing what he terms an "emotional preference against the idea that spirits come back and produce physical effects upon our physical plane," Mr. Bird has summed his scientific investigations up in this manner:

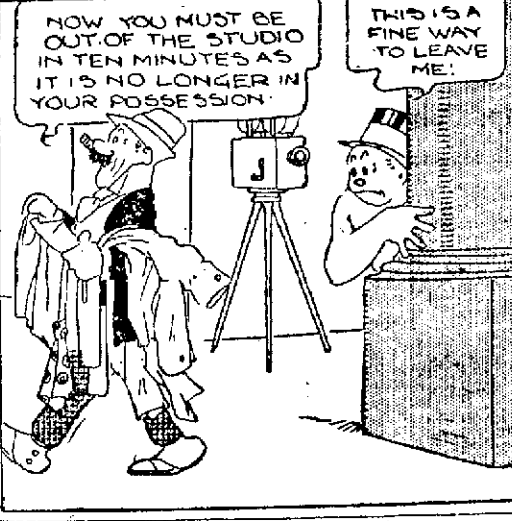

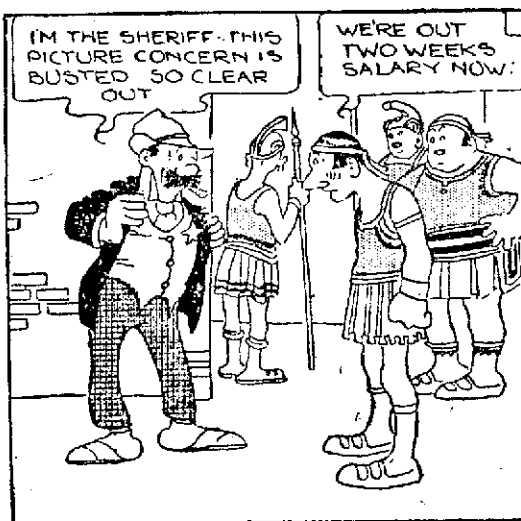

No Evidence of Spirits

"Doing all I can to discount this preference, I still am unable to find anything whatever has occurred in my presence that is in the least degree demonstrative of survival and communication and activity of the physical plane by deceased humans."

Mr. Bird explained that he did not mean that physical phenomena do not occur.

He concludes, first, that what scientists call subjective phenomena, under the head of which come hypnotism and telepathy, do occur and he cites instances in support of the belief. He concludes also that he has been impressed with objective or physical phenomena, such as objects moving about at high velocity, weaving themselves, in dark rooms, in and out of chandeliers and other furnishings without contact. His theory is that, with the brain giving off energy, with other brains as the receiver, it is possible also to reach the point of concentration where physical objects may also be the receivers and may be controlled by the brain. If such is true, he holds it is an entirely human process and not spirits working through the medium.

Telepathy Proven
In support of his admission that telepathy is existent, Mr. Bird points to the case of a Scottish woman. Her husband was a sea-faring man and at the time was at sea and not expected home for several weeks. She was observed to rush out of the door of her house, with her arms extended, and to walk thus a distance of about 100 yards on the moor in front of her cottage. She suddenly folded her arms as if about an object and fell in a faint. When she recovered, she said, "My husband is dead." It was later established that at about that exact moment, her husband had been drowned at sea.

In one of his sittings with the clairvoyant medium, Mrs. Leonard, she told him that he had booked passage on two separate ships when he left America for England. Mr. Bird had told no one in England of this, but as a matter of fact, he had done so as a precaution.

Through her "control" (the spiritist working through the medium's mouth) she told him also of the existence of a picture of three women taken by the seashore. One of the women, now a spirit, was supposed to be communicating with him through the medium. Mr. Bird recalled no such picture at the time, but upon his return to America his mother verified its existence. It was a picture of his grandmother and two of his women relatives taken by the seashore. He attributed this to the workings of telepathy, the explanation being that the medium had taken in through this source the workings of his subconscious mind.

Mediums Fraudulent
As far as physical phenomena as the result of spirit action is concerned, he holds a different view. The Scientific American offered $2,500 in the first medium who produced psychic phenomena. Only two have claimed the reward and Mr. Bird says both have been proved to have worked fraud in their seances before the committee.

One was Valentine. Unknown to him, the committee installed an electric apparatus under his chair. As long as the medium retained his seat, the contact was unbroken and a light in the next room, which he did not know was there, was burning. A telephone was also installed. Checking up the records of the seance, Mr. Bird found that when the medium produced physical phenomena, invariably he was out of his seat.

The other medium was Mrs. Stewart. She came to New York last week to demonstrate spirit writing. She placed a flower between two cards and when they were unfolded, the name of the late William T. Stead, famous British editor, appeared, with the legend, "Yes, we have no bananas." Several of these experiments were conducted. Each time the medium wore a big coat. Each time she insisted, also, that the same cards be used. After one sitting, Mr. Bird found that five of the plain white cards were missing from the pack. He had a stationer shave off a fraction of each card and he used them again the next day. When Mrs. Stewart produced writing on five cards, it was found that she had used sleight of hand. Her performance was duplicated by a sleight of hand performer.

No Spirit Proof
The mediums Mr. Bird visited in Europe and Miss Messinet in America were not subjected to the scientific test. He explained that he was merely a "tolerated guest" at these seances. His conclusion of the result of these experiments which he will publish shortly in a book, is that many of them were fraud, others might be fraud, while still others impressed him to the "outright hypothesis that some psychic force was at work." He does not believe, however, that spirits produced them, but contends that the subconscious mind, or telepathy was responsible.

The opinion was written at the request of the mayor's office regarding certain bonds which have been voted by the city of Milwaukee.

The legal department's summary of the opinion follows: "Bonds of cities of the first class must be sold or hypothecated within three years from the adoption or approval by voters when required of the initial resolution authorizing the issue, and may be sold or hypothecated at any time within that period, except bonds in anticipation of the sale of which contracts have been entered into or expenditures made prior to the sale of the bonds for the

IN THE FAITH

EXAMINE yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves, now that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobat—2 Corinthians 13: 5.

Splendid

ALTHOUGH the rescue of the Winneshiek bottoms can not yet be said to be assured, the announcement by Will Dill that President Coolidge has given his approval to the anti-drainage fight is the best evidence so far obtainable that the scheme will eventually be blocked. As chief executive of the nation President Coolidge has powers ample to protect the bottoms, and fortunately nothing irretrievable has yet been done, although the drainage advocates won the opening skirmish in the fight. We may with reason have high hopes of the saving of the Winneshiek—and sportsmen who realize what this may mean to hunting and fishing in our front-door playground should express their substantial gratitude to the local Izaak Walton League which opened the fight for the Winneshiek as a forlorn hope, and kept it up tenaciously until the reserves of conservationists all over the country could be rallied in support.

Even more hopeful is the announcement in this issue that President Coolidge's approval covers the entire Upper River project of the Izaak Walton League as well as the rescue of the Winneshiek. The Winneshiek is only one unit in the great chain of bottoms from Lake Pepin to Rock Island which is threatened by the drainage engineers. It is one of the more important, but the drainage of any one of a number of others would be equally disastrous. The knowledge that such proposals will find no favor in Washington will doubtless nip in the bud any hasty effort to grab any part of the bottoms, and in the meantime the bill to create the great river park may be hastened to its final passage. In this the endorsement of the president will be of inestimable value.

That President Coolidge, or any other man of judgment and patriotism, could not understand the need of protecting the bottom lands forever, is unimaginable. But it needed some powerful organization to bring the situation to the notice of Washington, which is a long way from the Mississippi and has many other things pressing to its attention. As the Izaak Walton League says, "fish and game cannot vote," and they need voting advocates to attract political notice. What the Winneshiek, and the whole bottoms region, has needed for its saving in the people's interest was a group of men who understood what could and should be done, and who could present the matter to the government. The instinct for conservation, the inherent love of the out-of-doors which lives in every American, may be depended upon to settle the question right once it is properly before them. For making the fight their own, for attracting public interest to the treasure whose loss threatened us, the citizens of this territory owe a big debt to the Izaak Walton League of America.

We ought to give Will Dill the keys of the city when he comes this way again. If he wins his fight he has done a great thing for the future happiness and prosperity of La Crosse, the center and natural gateway to the bottoms park. And it looks as if the fight were beginning to come his way.

Don't Worry

A SCIENTIST of some note—Prof. J. N. McFarlane of the University of Pennsylvania—declares that prehistoric fish, caught in some cataclysm of nature and embedded in the earth, were the original source of petroleum. The world continues to have unlimited quantities of fish, he points out, and therefore he scouts the often-repeated prediction that petroleum will eventually be used up. However, practical petroleum men who do not venture to combat the professor's research results in the origin of oil find his deduction as to the supply rather cold comfort. They point out that present oil-fields were laid down, if Professor McFarlane is right, by earthquakes or other disturbances millions of years ago. They reason that fish now swimming will not be turned into petroleum for millions of years more. And they seriously doubt whether there is enough oil stored up to last the world until this year's fish-crop is ready.

As for us, we refuse to worry. It has already been demonstrated that with minor changes present types of motors may be run on alcohol. Science knows plenty of ways to make alcohol out of vegetable matter, which produces a crop every year. Several million years before the merits or demerits of the McFarlane findings can be finally settled on the basis of what happens to this year's fish, we'll all be buying alcohol in some form at the corner filling station, and the petroleum-fish controversy will have merely academic importance. So long as the sun shines and the rain falls we shall run our automobiles and our airplanes—with gasoline so long as it lasts and with alcohol afterwards.

But it is interesting to discover that petroleum is only low-grade cod liver oil, isn't it?

Big Movie News

A BATTLE apparently starts to reduce the high cost of making movies, especially the fabulous salaries paid to movie stars. Adolph Zukor announces that the eastern and western Famous Players-Lasky film studios will shut down, halting work by sixteen companies of movie actors. Some of the stars affected by the shut-down are Pola Negri, Bebe Daniels, William S. Hart, Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan. Production costs are too high, in addition to overproduction, says Zukor. He says he's aiming for a lowering of movie salaries, cost of staging and mechanical expenses.

The making of movies is only secondarily an art. Primarily it is a business, as much so as selling sausages or hardware or groceries. The public knows this, and it naturally must be surprised that producers find the costs of making pictures too high, in view of what the public pays to see the films.

It is possible that Zukor's shut-down will mean an end of "super-films" and a return to simplicity. The theater met the same sort of crisis years ago. Shows had been running to the extremely spectacular. Production costs had become almost prohibitive. Then Eugene Walter wrote "Paid in Full," starting an epidemic of plays with small casts. Producers naturally liked the small cast idea: few actors to pay, few scenery changes. A show could be tried out without risking much money. The small cast injected real art into the American theater. This bit of history may repeat in the movies.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

A gigantic boulder jarred from an overhanging cliff wrecked southbound Limited No. 58 on the Burlington near Genoa this morning fatally injuring the engineer and seriously injuring six others. The boulder weighed fifty tons. It broke trees in its path, snapped a telephone pole like a toothpick and tore out a portion of a wagon road. The engine and tender were ditched but the Pullmans and coaches remained on the rails which were twisted like hairpins.

Changing Enid's Mind

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

John Sinclair looked up from the letter he had been reading and there was an amused smile in his eye. It was addressed to his sister-in-law, but he had been instructed to glance through the mail and send any important letters on to South Africa, where she and John's brother were spending a few months.

He re-read the letter, which was signed by one Enid Mathews.

"My Dear Mrs. Sinclair—Are you by any happy chance the Mrs. Sinclair whom I had the pleasure of meeting, during the first year of the war, at Bournemouth? If so, I should very much like to renew our acquaintance."

"It has been most difficult to obtain friends while sailing back and forth across the ocean. As much as I have wanted to, but now I am settled in a cozy London flat, and hope you will come and have tea with me Sunday—you and Mr. Sinclair."

"I have taken up my life here, and have made up my mind to marry an Englishman, a purser on one of the big liners. I have always wanted to locate in London, and to be not too terribly tied down by marriage, and the idea of having half the time all to myself, and half to my husband will be just ideal."

"I think it must be a bit of a trial to have a husband about all the time. In the meantime, do come to the big London Sunday, and let me see if I am desperately homesick in this big London. Will just look for you as my telephone is not as yet in."

Sincerely Yours
ENID MATHEWS.

"Cheery matrimonial ocean for that poor purser," mused John Sinclair. "Looks almost as if he were being married because of his age and a home in London. However, frankness is a very desirable characteristic, and Miss Mathews seems to have a good supply."

He thought of an answer for some time and then decided to call on the young lady herself. Since she was desperately lonely she might welcome him as a friend, and he would be just as well as to go to the place of Helen and Ned. Anyway, he would risk it.

London was, after all, a bit of a treat if one happened to be a warlike human companion. Besides, John Sinclair had a growing curiosity to meet this independent type of girl, who was always something breezy about an individual personality.

He had not changed his mind when Sunday afternoon arrived, and was about to dress in his usual careless tweeds when he suddenly decided on his top and black coat. He even stopped while crossing Piccadilly, to select a few fragrant English violets for his lapel.

Sinclair was glad afterward that he had discarded the tweeds. He would have felt very much out of the picture in such attire.

Enid's flat was exquisite. He had a moment's swift survey of it before she herself came in. Sinclair hoped she would be always something satisfied and that the unexpected rush of admiration was not too marked.

"You are not Mr. Edward Sinclair—she said."

Sinclair apologized.

"No, I happen to be his brother. I read your letter and—" Enid smiled now and came forward with outstretched hand. "I am glad you came."

It was good of you, she said, and he was glad to see her. Sinclair and he wished he had brought more violets, and also he condemned his own taste in not having told him about this girl. He might have known her seven years and might even—now, there was that purser ship. "I trust this evening when you are engaged will not be annoyed at my having come to see you," he ventured.

Enid laughed softly.

"I would not marry a man who was so narrow as that," she said. "He is no doubt walking the deck with some lovely girl this very minute."

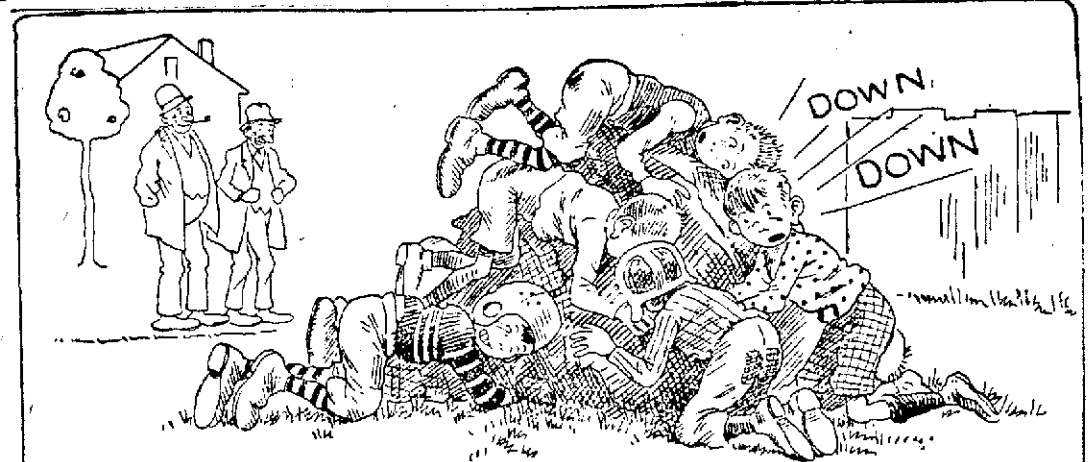

She dismissed the subject easily. Sinclair thought, and continued chatting. "Now tell me all about Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair. She and I promised to become such good friends but I—well, I am such a cad about that it is difficult to claim these rare friendships."

Sinclair said he had been at half-past four and it was eleven-thirty when he had his good night at her door.

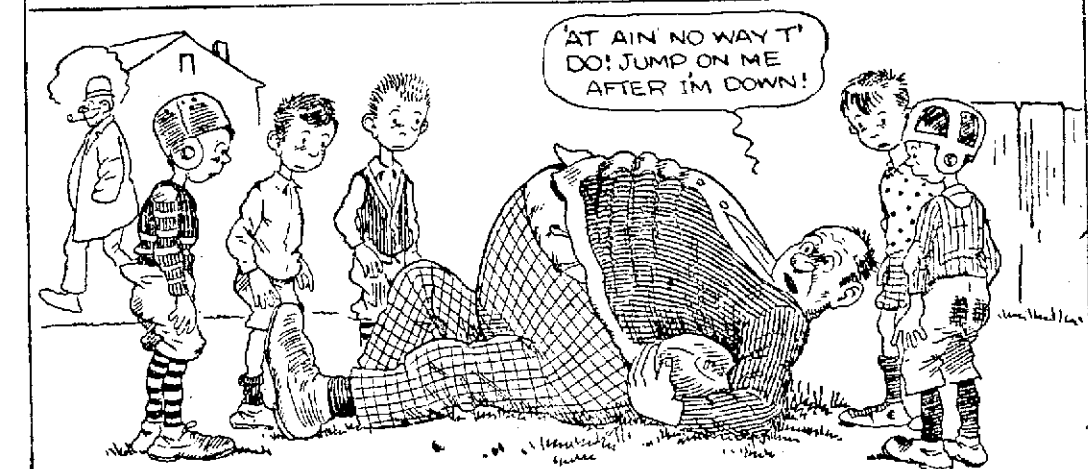

They had had their tea and chatted at the fireside. Sinclair had suggested a bite outside and Enid had accepted with flattering smiles.

He stopped to buy the violets and his heart thumped absurdly as she nested their against the gray fox for her throat.

After a light supper he suggested one of the delightful concerts for which London Sundays are famous, and again he heard nothing save the soft breathing and occasional low murmur of Enid's voice. After that he found a taxi and told the driver not to hurry as he drove them home through the Park.

"I have never enjoyed a Sunday so much in all my life," Enid told him when in the shade of her doorway her hand lingered in his. "I shall be a trifle unsteady."

Enid drew in a swift breath. "If you want to go, she said. And she darted into the house leaving Sinclair in utter gloom."

It was Wednesday before he sent her the big basket of spring flowers and Friday before he ventured to call and see if she would take in a theater with him.

When they came out from the theater Sinclair wanted her to have some supper, but she insisted on taking him home with her, where the maid served dainty refreshments. There were light laughter and smiles and a great deal of happiness, but Sinclair knew that he must not see Enid again. It was not fair to that purser nor to himself. Already—and he had seen her but twice—the was the most wonderful thing in the world for him. It was to torment to contemplate the return of the man to whom she was betrothed.

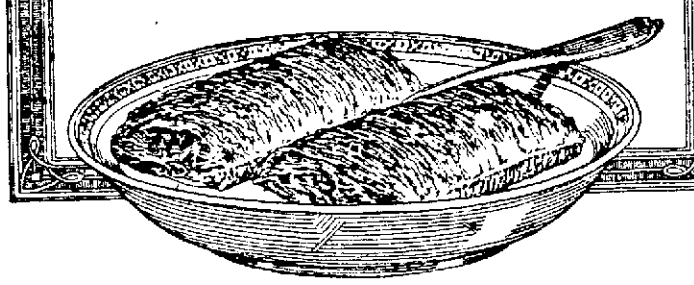

He arose abruptly to say good-bye. "I am not going to see you any more," he said, and was upon his knees, in the fervor of his grip he was hugging her two hands.

Enid turned a bit white. "But—but

MARGARINE NOT A "SUBSTITUTE" SAY MANUFACTURERS
Is a Fine, Modern Food

Margarine is made and sold in an honest, straightforward fashion in accordance with the best ideals of modern American food production and marketing. It reaches the consumer in a carton that is plainly stamped "oleomargarine," so that the customer knows exactly what she is buying. In fact the high character of margarine as a pure, wholesome food is so pronounced that the producers are proud to be identified with their product.

Conscious of the sound ethical basis upon which the industry is operating, the margarine manufacturer naturally resents the constant allusion to his product as a "substitute," or an "equivalent." The use of the word "butterine" is to be deplored, as it gives the impression that margarine seeks to be sold in place of another and similar product. The food writers are as much to blame in this respect as anybody. Most of their definitions start, "Margarine is a substitute—" and even some dictionaries follow suit.

Margarine today is a prepared spread, but is no more artificial than any other food that is prepared by alternate heating, blending and chilling. The flavor of margarine pleases the taste of a great number of persons. Its ingredients are the best grade of the kind, are of known purity and wholesomeness. Modern methods of production are responsible for it being possible to offer margarine to the consumer at a price that is most moderate. It is a combination of value that has proved satisfactory to the taste of thousands of women—hence its wide sale. And it is marketed solely on its own merit.

The immense increase in the use of margarine is witness to its wide popularity and to its merit as a spread and as a shortening. Last year the demand for margarine amounted to 299,000,000 pounds and of this large quantity 144,000,000 (144,000,000) LUCKY MARGARINE, the largest selling brand, and the finest spread for bread, represented a large share. Such a record, made solely on the merit of the product, shows the advantage of doing business with branded merchandise, and is a crying refutation of any desire on the part of the margarine manufacturer to sell his product as a substitute. NATIONAL MEN AND AFFAIRS

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
(Special Correspondent, Tribune)

NEW YORK.—The promoters of the dollar theater for New York City are discouraged and depressed. Their has been the idea of bringing good drama and comedy and music within reach of the average man and woman at a price they could afford to pay. It was admitted there are thousands, possibly millions of persons unable to produce $1.40 a seat for the better theatrical productions. It was also admitted that a lot of persons paying 55 cents to see a movie might be induced to part with a dollar to see something in the legitimate.

But interest in the dollar project has lagged. It has lagged because the people of New York apparently have lost all respect for the once almighty dollar. A one dollar note has come to be regarded in the metropolis as of little more real value than the million mark German notes lawed about the streets at five and ten cents a piece. The movies that charge $2.20 and the shows that charge $1.40 are crowded each night, while the dollar theater seems entirely lost in shuffle. To make you think a thing is good in New York you have to charge ten for it.

$22 a Seat
That is why a records were broken at the opening performance of the Ziegfeld Follies. There was an extraordinary line in the announcements of the opening. It said "There will be no increase in prices after the opening performance." You realized partly what that meant when you asked the aforesaid prices. They were $22 a seat. This was not the price of the opening performance. It was the price of the first night. But still there was amazement in that announcement. You wondered how there ever could be an increase after the $22 of the opening night. Then it was explained that Miss Billie Burke's husband meant that after charging $22 for the opening night there would be a return to normalcy—if $4.40 per can be termed normalcy.

Therefore there have been 811 prices charged for the opening performance of the big revues because it has been argued these performances have about them the intimacy of a sort of glorified dress or undress rehearsal of the "glorification of the American girl." But this year Mr. Ziegfeld paid himself to pay $27.50 to see Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Firpo sock each other in the jaw, and foolish enough to pay $22 to see Zev run rings around Papyrus, why shouldn't they pay $22 to see a hundred pretty girls in all stages of glorification? One revue producer once said that if any of his girls showed up "glorified" he would send them home to sleep it off. But at the Follies glorification is the word, and some of the "glorified" wear talcum powder, if no more.

Well, Ziegfeld was right. The New Yorkers fought each other to pay the $22. Why, therefore, should not the promoters of a $1 show be disappointed?

It is said that when the audience at the opening of the Follies was filing out about 2:30 a. m. Eddie Cantor was seen flogging and kicking at his orchestra chair.

"Hey, what you doing?" yelled an usher.
"I paid $22 for this seat, young man," replied the comedian, "and by the gods I'm going to take it home with me!"

Of Walter Camp

Luncheon with Walter Camp at the Yale Club, New York, on a rainy day. Naturally you avoid the heavy table make for the specialty shop—the grill. "What will it be?" says the grand old man of football. The only thing is, that word "old" doesn't seem to fit Walter Camp. Bronzed and rugged he sits there before you, the picture of virile manhood. He is bald, beyond a doubt, but it is not the baldness that "busts" right in your face. You wonder why. Then you realize there is no white pallor to the Walter Camp dome. It, too, is bronzed and weather-beaten—the result of many battles days on the golf links, bridle paths and football fields. Sixty-five summers have passed over that very fine head, but they have passed with padded tread and left little trace behind them.

"What will it be?" repeats Walter Camp and still you hesitate. You wonder what the Daddy of the daily dozen is going to talk himself and you don't want to risk a frown of disapproval from this master of condition over some ill-chosen dish of your own fancy. The master's mind is soon made up and you sit back at attention to hear his order to the head waiter. You are certain you are on the verge of some great dietetic secret.

"An oyster stew, and some milk crackers—none of the salty kind."

That's all there was to it and you wonder why you couldn't have thought of an oyster stew yourself. Others have done it, so why get stage fright with Walter Camp.

"Dessert?" yes. "Bring me a jar of honey and some more milk crackers, please."

And that's all there was to that. No coffee, no tea, just a sort of milk and honey diet. Why not? Isn't it the fabled menu of the land that is fairer than this?

But here's a secret. Perhaps it shouldn't be told. But one must be frank with one's public, so here goes: Walter Camp smoked cigarettes all through the meal—just plain, common, round cigarettes; no gold tips or nothin'.

Hot Dog

The raiment which gave Fred such a kick adorned some of the sport writers from Great Britain. One of them had on a trick derby of pearl gray with pearly gray spots and pearly gray gloves.

"I'm told one of the visitors writes under the pseudonym of 'Hotspur,'" said Fred. If that's so I don't see any reason why his friend in pearl gray shouldn't be 'Hot Dog.'"

Science has taken the squirt out of the grapefruit. Everyone who has ever eaten one knows how the grapefruit squirts in your eye when you dig the spoon into one of its segments. Batons and Spears Establish Human Status; Petrified Giants Photographed
BY LEE OVERMAN
(Special Dispatch to The Tribune)

SAN FRANCISCO—Discovery this week near Santa Barbara of the skeleton of a prehistoric "ape-man" together with other recent discoveries in Arizona and the other in Texas may completely disprove the theory of American origin of the human race.

The Santa Barbara discovery is not only of unusual interest to scientists but also of more than passing interest to laymen. Evidence of the bones of the bones of two prehistoric man, found there, together with their stone batons and spears, and the "ape-man" skeleton, in fact, prove the "missing link" in the theory of the presence of the human race from the East to the West.

Close to Apes
Both the Santa Barbara skeleton and the Arizona skeleton are remarkably close to the bones of the modern man. The Arizona skeleton, in fact, is so close to the modern man that it is difficult to believe that it is not the same. The bones of the Santa Barbara skeleton, however, are more like those of the modern man than those of the Arizona skeleton.

and early haired mastodons as to who was boss of the domain.
The Santa Barbara excavations are being made under the direction of the Smithsonian Institute and official announcements already have been forthcoming that the two prehistoric specimens are of several centuries the first known existence of mankind on this continent.

The Arizona discovery, which also tends to confuse scientists and eminent archaeological experts in their reckonings, is that of a gigantic race of aborigines who once roamed the Pacific Southwest. Evidence that such a race existed many centuries ago has been found in an almost inaccessible part of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

The discoveries consist of mammoth foot prints on limestone ledges of the canyon, that hardened at least five centuries ago. Some of the footprints measure 24 inches in length, in fact, that the owners were 12 to 15 feet in height. Along with the human foot prints also are the clearly marked foot marks of giant horses and cattle.

The most interesting and conclusive discovery in the Grand Canyon, however, is what is declared to be the petrified bones of three giants, all partly imbedded in limestone formations. Scientists declare it is impossible for the human body to become petrified. First information regarding the Grand Canyon Giants was given in 1891 by a prospector more than 20 years ago but because of the belief that petrification is impossible no steps were ever taken to investigate the matter.

Three months ago an expedition of San Francisco and Oakland men visited the burial place of the giants in the canyon and obtained photographs of them and also other evidences which they assert proves them to have been a gigantic race of aborigines. Another expedition this time numbering several eminent savants, is now enroute to the Grand Canyon to make belated investigation.

Find Petrified Giants
The other discovery in Oregon also serves to substantiate the Arizona theory that a great race of giants once populated the Pacific coast, and also tends to disprove scientific beliefs that the human body will not petrify.

This discovery is that of the body of a giant woman, apparently hewn from stone, but which persons who have viewed it declare is a petrified human. The stone giantess was discovered less than three months ago in the almost impenetrable recesses of the Klamath Forest reserve, by a corps of hydro electric engineers.

Photographs of the Giantess show the body to be partly imbedded in rock. The figure is kneeling, as if in prayer or grief, one arm shading the face and the clearness of outline and vividness of pose indicate the master hand of a Rodin. Engineers who examined the figure declare it gives evidences of having been exposed to the elements for centuries.

"LOYAL LIVES" IS A SPLENDID FILM COMES HERE SOON

An amazing picture of the U. S. Postal Service will be shown at the Rivoli theatre for three days, Nov. 8, 9 and 10, for the benefit of the letter carriers' convention fund. "Loyal Lives" is one of the most human portrayals ever screened. It is the story of an unending hero, of the devoted, unflinching service and loyalty of the postman; a recognition of his difficulties, of his untiring service, in protecting the mail entrusted to his care.

"Loyal Lives" portrays the life of a postman. It goes with him on his route, it shows his duties, his kindness of heart and his pictures, too, the danger he confronts. "Loyal Lives" is a romance of the postal service.
Brandon Tynan, America's foremost actor, plays the role of the plodding postman. Mary Carr, who has made an enviable reputation through the portrayal of the mother role in "Over the Hill" and other pictures, again will display her unusual abilities in "Loyal Lives." Paule Binney lends enchantment with her beauty as Peggy, adopted daughter. William Collier, Jr., is another member of the all star cast. A special matinee will be given for ladies and school children Saturday, Nov. 10. Admission, adults, 25 cents.

children, 10 cents. Everyone should see this most instructing picture and see the problems the letter carrier has to contend with, for he is the contact point between the government and the millions of American people.

This picture has the endorsement of the Hon. Henry S. New, postmaster general. Get your tickets from your mail carrier.

WINONA JUDGE IS HELD FOR DRIVING AUTO WHILE DRUNK

Judge Looby to be Arraigned in Court Today Says the Chief of Police

WINONA—Robert E. Looby, judge of probate in Winona county, will be arraigned today in municipal court on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, Chief of Police H. C. Riebau said in a signed statement. Chief Riebau, in explaining the failure of the police department for three successive days to bring Judge Looby into court to answer the charge, despite the fact that police records showed he had been arrested, issued the following statement:

"Judge Robert E. Looby, who was arrested by police early Tuesday morning on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, will be arraigned in municipal court tomorrow on that charge."

The police department has delayed arraigning Judge Looby for several days as a courtesy to several influential citizens. The police department has heard the arguments of these citizens who appear to feel that the public interest would be best served by dropping the case.

"The police department does not share that view, however, and remains firmly convinced that in the interest of fair and impartial justice, no exception can be made in this case on the ground that the defendant is a member of the bar and the judge of a court."

"The police department feels that no further arguments which could be advanced could alter its decision to proceed with the prosecution, and therefore no further delay is contemplated."

Police records show that Judge Looby was arrested on Lafayette street at 1 a. m. Tuesday by officers John Malosh and George McElmurry. He was charged with driving a car on Third and Lafayette streets while in an intoxicated condition. He was held in custody at the police station.

until late Tuesday forenoon. Chief Riebau said, when he was released on $100 bail.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, G.

REAL ESTATE MEN PREPARING COURSE FOR UNIVERSITIES

Will Urge Adoption of Four-year Courses in Real Estate Education

ACTION FOLLOWS FOUNDED OF EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

Prominent Educators Join in Meeting at Madison

MADISON, Wis.—By the Association of Real Estate Boards, a four-year standard course in real estate education for adoption by American universities and colleges is the primary object of a two-day conference of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the Institute for Research in Real Estate Education, which opened here today. Representatives of universities and colleges throughout the country and leaders of the 26,000 real estate men in the national association were expected to attend the meeting.

Students in the manner of collecting rents and keeping janitors and elevator men at their posts will be worked out.

The United Y. M. C. A. schools also will take an active part in the conference. Dr. John M. Gries, chief of the division of building and housing of the U. S. Department of Commerce, is expected to represent the federal bureau of agricultural economics.

Dean Edmund Day, University of Michigan; Dean Ralph E. Hallman, school of commerce, Northwestern University, and Dean George M. Walter, Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, are among those scheduled to take a leading part in the conference. Dr. Richard T. Ely, nationally known economist of the state university here, will lead discussions. The United Y. M. C. A. Schools will be represented by T. H. Nelson, assistant executive secretary of the International Y. M. C. A., Dean Harry G. Atkinson, Chicago, and Rudolf W. Staudt, Chicago. The Y. M. C. A. schools already are offering in a number of cities a standard two-year course in real estate, it is stated.

Leaders in the real estate field who are on the program of the conference include Paul Stark, Madison, chairman of the educational committee of the national association of real estate boards; E. S. Judd, Chicago; Ralph P. Swafford, Kansas City; Henry Ely, Cedar Rapids; Harold L. Reeve, Chicago; C. T. Moffat, Minneapolis, and Frank A. Chase, Kansas City, educational director of the American Savings, Building and Loan Institute.

Executive Secretary H. U. Nelson, Chicago, of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, has been named as director of the American Real Estate Institute, whose mail courses are expected to be ready within six months. He will outline the institute's plans to the meeting here, and tell of the work accomplished with such courses as are now proposed for colleges in the United Y. M. C. A. schools in various cities. The Y. M. C. A. have been offering courses in real estate for several terms.

The extension course of the institute, as now planned will include studies in business economics, property law, finance, valuations and appraisals, the principles of real estate practice, and the elements of land economics.

LA CROSSE HIGH ELEVEN MEETS WISCONSIN RAPIDS SATURDAY

TEAM IS READY AFTER SCRIMMAGE DUTY THIS WEEK

"All Americans" Give Regulars Stiff Opposition; Score on Long Pass

MINOR INJURIES WILL NOT HANDICAP TEAM SATURDAY

Rapids Come Here After Defeating Stevens Point Last Week

AFTER being given some stiff opposition by the "All Americans" in two encounters in the week the high school eleven is in the best possible condition for their tilt with Wisconsin Rapids Saturday at Normal field.

With the exception of a few minor injuries all the men are in fine shape expecting to show the fans of La Crosse they are a team of championship caliber. Coach Finley is planning to run up just as large a score as possible and make good his boast that after this game the team will average one point every 70 seconds. As it is the average stands at 70 seconds per touchdown.

All Americans Score

In the scrimmage with the "All Americans" the regulars received some stiff opposition. Among the men that played were "Dutch" Egan, "Pinky" Gibson, "Art" Troy.

HERMANN OUT

Old Man Injury stuck his head in at Hixon field last long enough Thursday night to seriously cripple the La Crosse high school football eleven.

Theodore Hermann, stellar left end, sustained a broken bone in his left elbow and will be out of the game for the remainder of the season. The injury was a big blow to Coach Finley's machine, which in Cameron and Hermann had boasted the best pair of ends in the state. Affeldt will no doubt replace Hermann. Affeldt has been under fire in every game except that at Superior and it is believed he will develop into a capable running mate for Captain Cameron.

"Doc" Abraham, "Bob" Reget and Earl Bakken. They were able to out over one center by the means of a long pass while the high school did not score at all.

Birnbaum is nursing a bump on his knee received in the Superior game but will be in good shape Saturday. Wenzel and Mullen are also bruised up a bit but are out every day and in the scrimmage. That Wisconsin Rapids thinks they are pretty good after beating Stevens Point Saturday is evidenced by a clipping from a Wisconsin Rapids paper:

"Practice this week has been held up owing to poor weather conditions and the fact that the players are pretty well satisfied with their showing last Saturday." In their present frame of mind they are ripe to receive an artistic lacing Saturday when they stack up against La Crosse high school here.

Prelim Game

Fans will be treated to something new on Saturday when, as a preliminary game the two high school second teams, the "Tigers" and the "Cubs" will do battle for championship of a league that was formed between Central and Logan high. On the two teams are men of good calibre who will probably make the first string next year.

COLUMBIA LEAVES TO BATTLE HARDY DES MOINES TEAM

DUQUOIE, Ia.—Special—Twenty Columbia college football players left today for Des Moines where they will struggle with Des Moines University Friday in one of the hardest games on the Duquoie team's schedule this season. The Columbia squad, which will be outgunned about ten pounds to a man will rely on its open work and speed more than smashing attack to defeat the Des Moines griders.

GOPHER STOCK JUMPS AFTER WISCONSIN IS BATTLED TO A TIE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—With last Saturday's scoreless and desperately fought clash with Wisconsin still fresh in their minds the University of Minnesota gopher warriors completed training today for what they hope to be their first conference victory of the season here Saturday when they meet Northwestern.

An unknown quantity prior to the Badger contest, the Gophers have risen immensely in the Big Ten rating, and judging by their exhibition at Madison will have to be reckoned with in "choosing" the conference championship.

SANDE'S KNOWLEDGE OF ZEV'S MOODS IS GREAT ADVANTAGE

NEW YORK.—Earl Sande's intimate knowledge of the moods and whims and racing ability of My Own will serve as an advantage to Zev when the prize three-year-olds meet in the Latonia championship on Saturday, race track enthusiasts declared Friday.

They asserted there has been no instance in racing history in which a jockey so thoroughly knew the capabilities of his own mount and the chief rival of that mount, for Sande in the course of the 1923 racing season, had had a leg up on Admiral Grayson's My Own in six victories and has handled Zev in ten of his feature contests.

Sande declines to predict the winner of the race. "My Own is a great horse," he says, "especially when running far, but I feel that Zev is better. He is faster over shorter courses. How long he can stay faster will be shown Saturday at Latonia."

MICHIGAN LEAVES THURSDAY FOR IOWA CONFERENCE CLASH

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Twenty-nine Michigan players, coaches, physicians and managers, left Thursday for Iowa City, where Saturday they meet the University of Iowa in one of the feature games of the conference week.

Comparative scores in the games the two teams played against Ohio shows them to appear evenly matched. Iowa scored 20 and Michigan 23 points against the Buckeye aggregation. Since that time both teams have been strengthened.

Added interest is given tomorrow's game because of the fact neither team was defeated last year. Iowa fell early this season in its game with Illinois. It is out to redeem itself against the Wolverines.

While Michigan followers give their team a slight edge on the Hawkeyes this does not change the feeling of the squad that it is up against one of the hardest battles of the season. Lloyd Frazier, Michigan quarterback, is expected to have the rest of his season making plays in an effort to outwit his opponents.

With an admittedly stronger line, Iowa is expected to offer strong resistance to all Michigan plays and only superior generalship can win for the visitors.

LAWRENCE READY FRIDAY TO MEET ANCIENT RIVAL

APPLETON, Wis.—The Lawrence college football team was ready Friday for its ancient rival, Ripon.

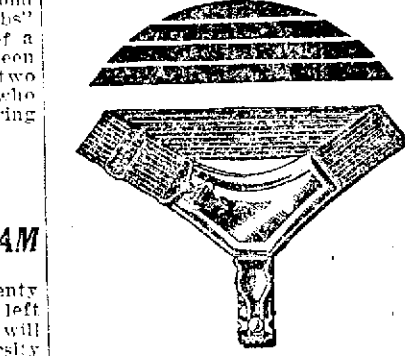

Schools will meet on the Lawrence grounds Saturday afternoon as the outstanding feature of a two-day tournament program. The contest will conclude preparations for the annual clash for Coach Buck's squad.

Lawrence showed considerable strength last week in holding Mt. Vernon (Iowa) to a 7 to 7 tie. The local team thereby put itself in line for second honors in the mid-west conference. Coach Buck has not put his team through a hard scrimmage each day this week in preparation for Saturday's contest.

HANOVER IN FOR SEVERE DRUBBING AT INDIANA'S HANDS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Hanover college football team is in for a severe drubbing at the hands of Indiana University, if the form shown by the Crimson Indians anything. In the first game of the season, Hanover was defeated 50 to 0 by the Hoosiers. The local aggregation is believed to be in much better condition than at any other time this year.

Hanover has had but little success on the gridiron this year, having been beaten severely on several occasions. From this distance it looks as though the game will give Indiana just what it needs—a chance to work off the rough edges in real competition. Chicago will furnish the opposition for Indiana a week from Saturday.

HOREMANS BEATEN BY WILLIE HOPPE THURSDAY, 500-435

SPEED BALL GAME AT FAIR GROUNDS IS EVENT SUNDAY

Speed ball will be introduced again to La Crosse sporting fans on Sunday at Normal field when the Seabers meet the Sopha, in a game growing out of a challenge of the former.

Speed ball is practically a new game which originated at the University of Michigan, and which has spread to other schools and universities as a conditioning game for basketball, football and track. It is a combination of basketball, football and soccer.

The public is invited to watch the demonstration. The game will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

RENAULT, JOHNSON IN MAIN EVENT OF HEAVYWEIGHT CARD

NEW YORK.—Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, and Floyd Johnson, of Iowa, battle Friday night in the main event of an all-heavyweight card at Madison Square Garden.

Renault has been established the favorite among ring followers, who believe his heavier hitting powers and ruggedness will overcome Johnson's courage and aggressiveness. They are matched for fifteen rounds.

STAGG REQUESTS DISCOURAGEMENT OF "PRO" FOOTBALL

CHICAGO, Ill.—(By The Associated Press)—Opinions from other athletic directors in the western conference on professional football were looked for Saturday after publication of a letter from Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg of the University of Chicago to "All Friends of College Football" attacking the professional game as a "menace."

The venerable Chicago coach declared in his letter that to "spice up" Sunday professional football is to "co-operate with the forces which are destructive of the high school and college football, and to add to the heavy burden of the schools and colleges in preserving it." He called upon friends of the game to refrain from encouraging the professional sport.

BADGERS GETTING REAL TASTE OF ILLINOIS PLAYS

Anticipate Victory Over Illinois if Grange Can be Stopped

CARDINAL ELEVEN IS PUT THROUGH HEAVY SCRIMMAGE

Ryan to Scout all of Badgers' Remaining Foes

MADISON, Wis.—The Wisconsin football team is experiencing a real taste of Illinois tactics this week in the form of scrimmage against the second team. One of the outstanding figures of practice this week and next will be Doyle Harmon, flashy back-field man, who is the Wisconsin imitator of Grange, the Illinois star.

To Stop Grange

Coach Ryan is pointing his men to stop Grange in the Wisconsin-Illinois fray next week at Urbana. Harmon, ineligible to play on the first team this year, is declared to be one of the fastest gridders in the Badger camp. He is said to be of the Grange type and will be worked hard during the remainder of practice. It is believed by Badger coaches that if the Wisconsin team can stop Grange, they have an excellent opportunity to score a victory against the Zuppke men.

During the last two days the Ryan men have been put through scrummage. The last part of this week was spent in actual practice to give the team a chance to fully recover from the Minnesota game last week. Harry and Arthur have been kept out of practice most of the week because of injuries from last week. However, they will be in shape for the Illinois game, it is believed.

Pursue Straight Tactics

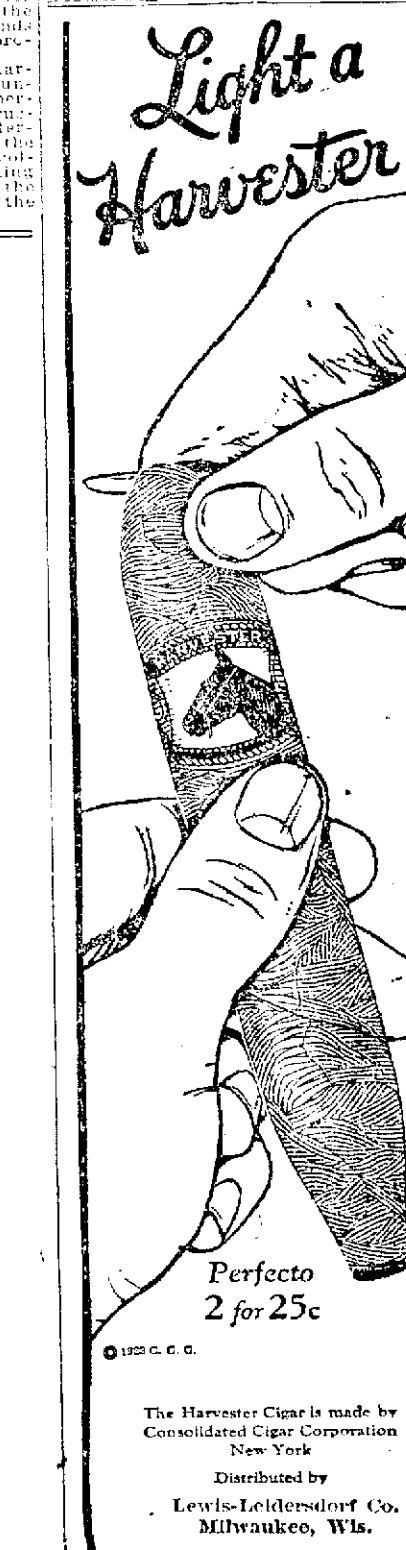

What tactics Ryan will use against Illinois next week is a question. Reports of scouts of the Illinois-Chicago game Saturday probably will determine what course of attack the Badgers will pursue. It is considered likely that the team will stick to the straight football tactics employed by Zuppke lines are expected to be evenly matched and the game will be hotly contested from the first.

Coach Ryan and his helpers and several members of the Badger squad will witness all three of the opponents remaining on the Wisconsin schedule in action this week-end. All of the teams are expected to be closely matched and the Badger members will have an opportunity to see them at their best. The teams which will be seen in action are Illinois, Chicago and Michigan.

Light a Harvester

FINAL LIGHT PRACTICES OF BIG TEN ELEVEN HELD TODAY BEFORE GAMES ON SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Big Ten football squads Friday held their final light practice before Saturday's games.

Old time close formation football and more modern open play will be combined in the clash between the University of Illinois and the Maroons. Judging from the weeks practice at both camps, Illinois' victory over Iowa and Northwestern, and Chicago's record of a goal line crossed but once, indicate the strength of the teams and their desire to win the game, which will eliminate one of the chief title contenders.

The contest will be the final homecoming and 55,000 persons are expected to fill the new stadium which will be formally opened.

Practices have indicated the Illinois rely on Grange, scoring ace, and Benton's kicking ability, and Chicago will base its hope on a strong line, strengthened by the return of Lampe and probably Jackson, with the Thomas in the back field.

Michigan and Iowa, tied for western conference honors last year, are reported on edge for their clash Saturday at Iowa City.

Minnesota received the Northwestern squad Friday and both teams were through a light workout for their meeting.

Saturday at Northrop field, a passing game is expected to be employed by both teams.

Neither the Notre Dame-Purdue game nor the contest between Indiana and Hanover is attracting any widespread attention. Wisconsin is building up a new offensive during its two weeks respite and Ohio State is expected to have little trouble with Denison Saturday.

LA CROSSE RULES FAVORITE TO WIN FROM MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE Wis.—La Crosse Normal football team will attempt to continue its drive toward the state championship here Friday afternoon, in the annual game with Milwaukee Normal.

The odds favor the visiting team to win. The locals have had hard going this season and are not in the best shape for today's contest. Coach Downer has been putting his charges through defensive work the past week in the hope of holding La Crosse to a low score.

La Crosse has four wins to its credit this season.

SEES ULTERIOR MOTIVE IN VISIT OF LLOYD GEORGE

Johnson Declares Briton Came to Try to Influence U. S. to Enter European Affairs

OAKLAND, Calif.—Senator Hiram Johnson sees in Lloyd George's visit to this country, "a bold plan" to convince the people of the United States of the cleverness and nobleness of the European cause. The senator declared in an address here Thursday, "I don't see anything of the kind," he continued. "The United States, despite the blandishments of European statesmen, or the unwholesome appeals of any of our own, will be neither her policeman nor collector abroad. America will answer the appeal of her own people, suffering and fighting, by contributions of money and food, but the nation should stand aside against participation in European political affairs."

"HER REPUTATION"

A magnificent scene in Thomas H. Ince's latest film production, "Her Reputation," where a great river overflows its banks and submerges a valley, was taken by special arrangement with authorities in charge of Laguna Dam at Yuma, Arizona. An entire village was built on the banks of the Colorado river. Its population was imported and then one of the gigantic flood gates was opened, the surrounding territory flooded for the thrilling shot, and the whole village and all its inhabitants carried off in the flood waters.

"Her Reputation" is now running at the Rivoli Theatre.

CASINO TODAY

The pioneer who blazed the trail to the West made possible the building up of this great nation. These men, many of them college graduates, who left their homes in the East when gold was discovered in California in 1849 and braved the dangers of the prairie with its desert sands and Indians to build up a new country, are worthy of consideration.

It was to honor these and present that period in its true colors that Vitaphone pictured "Pioneer Trails," shown at the Casino Theatre today.

Diverse detail of the picture was given careful consideration by a staff of experts, many of whom had either crossed the plains in those early days or were the descendants of pioneers.

The cast includes such popular players as Cullen Landis, Alice Calhoun and Oris Harlan.

"WHY WORRY?"

The hills around Culver City resounded with the infuriated firing of more than a thousand Mexicans arrayed in civil fighting units. It might have been a great dramatic spectacle in the making for the movies, yet it was all being done in the spirit of fun—the spirit that permeates Harold Lloyd's "Why Worry?"

"Why Worry?" is by far the biggest production ever made by Lloyd. The picture was produced on the most lavish scale. Big sets, big crowds, and big people—the biggest was John Aasen, an army in himself, towering 8 feet 8 and a quarter inches above the ground, weighing 460 pounds.

STRAND TODAY

A story of romantic quality, with that continental flavor which has been imparted to most of her stories by Mme. Blinn Glyn, is included in "The Great Moment," in which Gloria Swanson made her debut as a Paramount star, and which will be shown at the Strand theatre today.

The story opens at an orgy in St. Petersburg when a British aristocrat is captivated by and marries a woman from the plains of Tartary—a Gypsy. The latter leaves him a daughter, Nadine, and in this role Miss Swanson has one of the greatest of her screen career.

A love story follows—a vivid, colorful, peevish romance, the story shifting across oceans and continents to America and the wilds of Nevada.

COMMISSION REPORTS GAIN IN INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS IN STATE

MADISON, Wis.—There is a general increase in the number of industrial accidents throughout the country with an increase in Wisconsin over last year of 1,700, the state industrial commission reports.

It is believed that the increase in accidents in industries is due to the fact that safety organizations weakened during the period of depression and that since conditions have improved employees have been put to work without sufficient instruction and supervision.

SAYS OPPOSITION TO DRY ACT WILL SOON DIE AWAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania, in an address Thursday night before the Illinois Women's Republican club, declared all opposition to prohibition will not last a decade.

In ten years' time he said, those who now break the Volstead law will either have changed their point of view, or died or become unpopular.

He declared himself for rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

Although prohibition enforcement at present is the greatest national question, he said, he could not see how it will be a party issue.

Senator Pepper declared himself in favor of the international high court, with members elected by an electoral college instead of by the league of nations delegates.

MOTHER NOTHING MONEY EVERYTHING SAYS GIRL THIEF

Declares She Doesn't Believe in Getting Things Honestly —It Takes too Long

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn.—"My mother means nothing to me. She is the same as any other ordinary woman in the world, but money is my God," declared Marie Raymond, alias Broadkast, 17 years old, confessed window smasher, in the city jail here.

Marie has confessed, police say, to theft of a fur coat from a local store window, and also to theft of $500 from a jeweler's window. The girl takes as a joke the fact that she may be sent to a disciplinary institution.

"I'd enjoy it there," she said. "I want beautiful clothes, jewelry and nice things and I don't believe in getting them honestly." Marie announced nonchalantly, "for the simple reason that working for your clothes takes too long."

STATE ROAD SYSTEM TO BE RENUMBERED FOR SEASON OF 1924

MADISON, Wis.—The entire system of state trunk highways will be renumbered next year due to the addition of 2,500 miles to the system according to an announcement by the state highway commission.

"We have advised counties this year not to remark their systems as a whole, but only those portions badly in need of it," the commission declared in its statement. The new warning signals along highways will be in place by the end of the season and the commission promises a campaign to reach the public the meaning of the various shaped signs.

CORPORATION INCOME TAX ASSESSMENTS SHOW THREE MILLION BOOST FOR 1923

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—Corporation income tax assessments for 1923 total $6,698,724.57, compared with $3,746,801.59 last year, or an increase of nearly three million dollars, according to assessment returns completed and announced Friday by the state tax commission. The corporation assessments were certified to county clerks for collection. In addition to the normal corporation tax, the commission also announced today the soldiers' educational bonus surtax to be $786,050.18, and teachers' retirement surtax of $1,024,518.56. There also is a soldiers' bonus tax of $16,287.65 assessed on book incomes for 1918 and that was discovered in the field audit, making the total corporation income taxes of all kinds on the current rolls the sum of $8,555,330.66.

Although the corporation income tax for 1923 is nearly double the 1922 assessment, the amount of back taxes is much smaller, it is pointed out by the commission. The total tax for this year is somewhat less than for the year 1921, but far in excess of the taxes of the pre-war period.

The total amount of back taxes discovered by field audits during the year, including the additional ten per cent interest prescribed by the 1922 legislature, is about $700,000, commission officials state. The assessment of income of individuals and fiduciaries made by local assessors, has not been completed but reports from these officials indicate that the assessment will be somewhat less than in 1922, it is said.

VACANCIES IN STATE INSTITUTIONS TO BE FILLED DECEMBER 1

MADISON, Wis.—A number of vacancies at state institutions will be filled by the state board of control on December 1, when the appointment of people to take the place of officials who have resigned will be made.

The board has notified superintendents of institutions that they are appointed for indefinite terms which depend on the conduct of their institutions. The board sent out this notice following reports that all institution heads were appointed but for a period of 30 days.

A vacancy still exists at Waupun prison through the resignation of Warden R. M. Coles. It is known that the state board of control has interviewed a number of people relative to this appointment.

There are two vacancies at the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Oshkosh through the resignation of the steward and his assistant at that place.

More than twice as many persons were killed by autos in 1922 as during 1915.

W. H. McADAM OF NORTH BEND IS KILLED IN CANADA

Brother of Mrs. A. L. Marshall of La Crosse Thrown Out of Auto

William H. McAdam, for more than 25 years a resident of the North Bend country, and a brother of Mrs. A. L. Marshall of North Bend, was killed last week in a car accident in Canada, when a car he was driving plunged over a pile of logs. Mr. McAdam was thrown into the air, his head striking a rock, a fatal blow.

Witnesses to the accident said the car was being repaired, and that it had been left in an unsafe position. Although the car was not moving, it was overturned, and a pile of logs was on top of it. The body was sent to North Bend, and was accompanied by a brother-in-law. Funeral services were held Monday from the Presbyterian church in North Bend, and interment made in North Bend cemetery.

Stevens property adjoining. This he occupied until a few years ago when he retired and built a fine home in the village of North Bend.

Before his retirement Mr. McAdam settled his sons on farms or otherwise provided for them and his other children. A number of years back he purchased a large tract of land in Canada, which was developed into a productive farm. He had spent the summer there this year and was about to return when he met his tragic end.

Mr. McAdam was married early in life. His wife died about five years ago. Of eight children born to them seven are living. These are George and Gilbert in Canada; Will, in California, and Louis, of North Bend. There are three daughters: Mrs. Robert Bullock and Mrs. Ames Brinker of North Bend, and Mrs. Christianson in Canada. One brother, Robert, of McAdams, and a sister, Mrs. A. L. Marshall, La Crosse, are the only remaining members of the original McAdam family.

Eatmor Cranberries

With Pot-Roast

Did you know that Cranberries cooked with pot-roast or other boiled meats make these cheaper cuts more tender and much more delicious?

To prepare a 3 lb. pot-roast: Brown meat in 3 tablespoons of hot fat. When surface is brown, remove meat from pan and add three cups of water; stir until boiling, then add 2 cups of Cranberry Sauce, made less sweet than usual; replace meat in pan with this gravy sauce and proceed with cooking in ordinary way. When the meat is half cooked, season with salt and pepper.

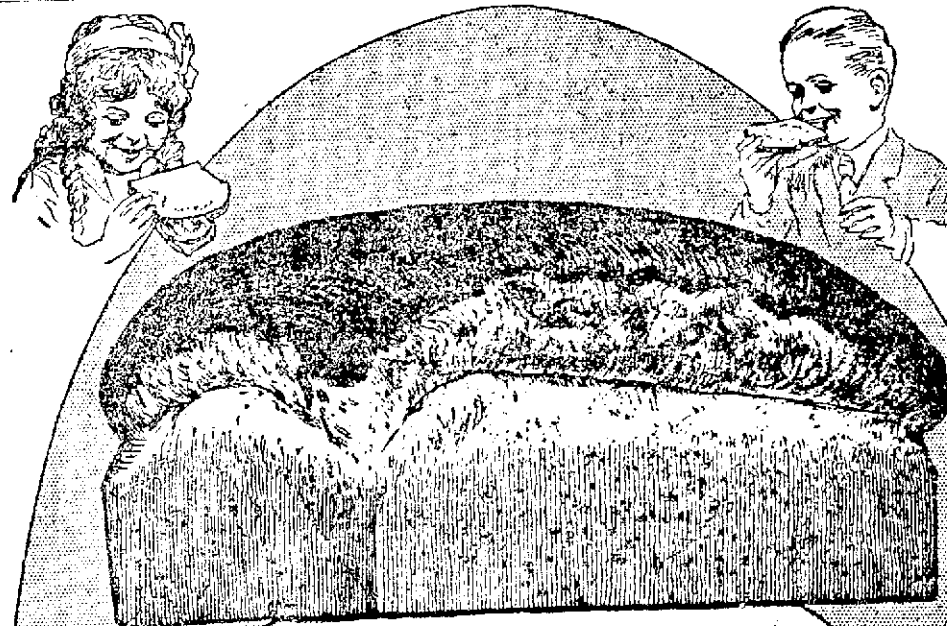

There is a real difference in Cranberries. Insist on getting "Eatmor" brand. AMERICAN CRANBERRY EXCHANGE, 90 W. B'way, New York.

ACCIDENT POINTS NEED FOR GREATER CARE IN BUILDING

Collapse of New Theater Build- ing in Janesville First Under State Code

MADISON, Wis.—The need for attention to building construction is urged by the state industrial commission to prevent the re-occurrence of accidents such as the collapse of the new Saxe theater building in Janesville, September 19. The collapse, which caused the death of one workman and the injury of a number of others, was the first of its kind in Wisconsin since the adoption of the state building code.
The commission has completed an investigation of the accident and found that there had been no vital defect in general design.

"The simplest kind of a building may be designed by a competent architect with the type of construction plainly shown in every respect but the failure on the part of workmen on a job to follow instructions in a small detail may prove disastrous,"
the commission reported.

"There are many features of building construction vital to its safety which are left exposed to view only for a short period of time during erection and which after being hidden from view remain potential danger points. It is difficult even for an inspector who is on the job during every stage of the work to find or sometimes even to recognize an improper piece of construction where the incompetence, carelessness, or ignorance are involved.

"It would make a big difference were all builders and designers under stringent supervision or control which would make them aware of the responsibility in such things as the proper use of materials, strict adherence to plans and reference of doubtful points to competent authorities."

Records show that 27 years is about the time a silver coin remains in currency.

Students Who Clipped Hair of Freshies Hallowe'en Night Get Their Own Hair Cut

TUCSON, Ariz.—More than 150 students of the University of Arizona are wearing their hair clipped close to the skin, and they are not all freshmen either. And as a result Dr. Floyd Heck Marvin, president of the university, says student self-government at the university has again proved its value.

Members of the sophomore and junior classes were given credit for cutting the hair of about 100 freshmen Hallowe'en night.

Friday morning there was a reckoning at the university.

"Stand up like men all of you who took part in the rush last night," said George Hill, president of the student body. All those who took part, numbering about seventy-five, stood

MONROE COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING PICKED BY HANEY

Superintendent Announces Date for Wilton Gathering; National Guard Inspected

TOMAH, Wis.—Superintendent M. Hanev of the Monroe county schools announced a teachers' meeting for November 24 at Wilton. The big annual "county round-up" will be held at Sparta on Friday and Saturday, February 1 and 2.

Major M. J. Joyce of the United States regular army recently inspected headquarters company, 15th Infantry, W. N. G. of Tomah. In his talk to the company after inspection Major Joyce complimented officers and men on their excellent work and soldierly appearance. Captain E. C. Van Winkle is at the head of the organization and has had much to do with its upbuilding and progress.

An "away from the farm" movement seems to have struck western Monroe county and as a result of this unusual number of farmers are selling their possessions at auction and are moving their families to Tomah and other towns. Numerous moves by farm families are in progress and as the inevitable result of these many changes, residence property in this city has taken on new values, due to the unusual demand for the same.

Mayor Ben Nuzum has again demonstrated his public spiritedness in donating to this city a drinking fountain for the comfort of man and beast. The supplying of this long felt need in the Third ward is an evidence of the "community spirit" of Mayor Nuzum. The fountain has been installed and is now in use.

Persons in the United States who now use gas for heating, lighting and cooking number approximately 48,000,000.

ILLINOIS SENATOR OUT FOR LOWDEN AS G. O. P. CANDIDATE

McKinley Declares Whoever is Nominated by Republicans Will Win

CHICAGO, Ill.—Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois is for Frank R. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, for the republican nomination for president, according to Friday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

"While present indications are that President Coolidge will be nominated," Senator McKinley is quoted by the Herald and Examiner. "I am for Frank Lowden. It is not my information that Colonel Lowden intends to make a fight for the nomination, but the convention may develop a situation in which the country would turn to him."

"I am a Lowden man. I am also a good party man. And, I trust, a good republican."

"Whoever is nominated by the republicans will be elected, in my judgment," the Illinois senator is quoted.
